A brief history of Hellenic Opera Corporation

Hellenic Opera Corporation (HOC) is the present name of the company founded by Philip Modinos. Philip's production ventures began in 2003, when he became production manager for the orchestra Feminarte. Many events were organised by Philip and in 2009 the first company was founded with Jenny Drivala called PopOpera. Later in 2011 in collaboration with Kassandra Dimopoulou the company took a new form and was named Skull of Yorick Productions. Finally in 2017 it was called by its present name.

HOC throughout its history has been a pioneer in the art scene bringing to the stage anything from undiscovered Shakespeare (Cardenio – King's College London 2007) to techno/rock versions of opera (Antigone – Ancient Greek Theatre Festival, Cyprus 2012).

From 2013 the epicenter for the company became Northern and Central Greece. From 2015 until 2019, the HOC team had a monopoly in grand opera in that part of Greece, with presentations both at the Thessaloniki Concert Hall as well as the Larisa Conservatory Theatre. Activities included the Greek Opera Festival at the Ancient Roman Forum in Thessaloniki as well as tours around Greece's summer theatre circuit.

HOC has also done TV productions (The Crow – DionTV 2019) and partook in co-organising the Opera Classica Europa tour in 2019.
